ESTELLA: SHORT STORY CONTEST

Report:

Estella, a short story contest was organised by students of I M.A English on 8th March 2021, under the auspices of English Association and Communication Skills Club in collaboration with Sojourner: The Creative Writing Club. The competition was only open for the students of I MA English. Aiswarya Sivan of I M.A English was selected as the student coordinator for the program. The contest was organised to celebrate International Women's Day. The candidates were asked to rewrite the fairy tale of Cinderella, from a feminist perspective as many traditional children's stories are criticized for gender stereotyping and questionable morals. The setting, the point of view and the timeline of the story can be changed but the characters and their names must remain the same. Miss Sona Johnson, Assistant Professor of the Department of English, decided the winners of the competition based on the narrative skill, language proficiency and creative plot line. Out of fourteen participants, Adorn Sunny, Treesa Maria Sebastian and Aiswarya Sivan of I M.A English won the first, second and third positions respectively. All the winners were awarded E-Certificates.

Extract given for Cadenza 2020

The Englishman was fascinated with the part about the progress achieved at the crystal shop after the boy began working there.

"That's the principle that governs all things," he said. "In alchemy, it's called the Soul of the World. When you want something with all your heart, that's when you are closest to the Soul of the World. It's always a positive force."

He also said that this was not just a human gift, that everything on the face of the earth had a soul, whether mineral, vegetable, or animal—or even just a simple thought.

"Everything on earth is being continuously transformed, because the earth is alive ... and it has a soul. We are part of that soul, so we rarely recognize that it is working for us. But in the crystal shop you probably realized that even the glasses were collaborating in your success."

The boy thought about that for a while as he looked at the moon and the bleached sands. "I have watched the caravan as it crossed the desert," he said. "The caravan and the desert speak the same language, and it's for that reason that the desert allows the crossing. It's going to test the caravan's every step to see if it's in time, and, if it is, we will make it to the oasis."

"If either of us had joined this caravan based only on personal courage, but without understanding that language, this journey would have been much more difficult."

They stood there looking at the moon.
